DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-27 are presented for further examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter and this is further explained below.

The claims are directed to a method that does not require computer implementation or use of computer technology to accomplish the method. The claims allow for the involvement of subjective human decision and therefore do not produce repeatable, concrete results.

Therefore, the language of the claims raises a question as to whether the claims are directed merely to an abstract idea that is not tied to a technological art, environment or machine which would result in a practical application producing a concrete, useful, and tangible result to form the basis of statutory subject matter under 35 U.S.C. 101.

It is also noted that the Applicants amendments to the claims to include "signals" does not obviate the outstanding 101 rejection since there is still no clear tangible aspects of the claimed invention. That is, the signals may simply be viewed as mathematical solutions derived from using mathematical models based on the physical system, wherein these solutions are either used by the models or are used for controlling the system, either way, they are merely abstract representations of data and are since the claim does not recite the utilization of tangible subject matter, the claims are believed to be appropriately rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101.

Response to Amendment

3. Applicants amendments to claim 1, as well the arguments presented in support thereof, do not render the claimed invention patentable for the reasons already explained above (See 35 U.S.C. Rejection above, last paragraph).

Therefore, since the amendments to the claims do not render the claimed invention patentable, and since the applicant's argument were not persuasive for the reason(s) listed above, this action is being made FINAL.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
